The story tellers

The story of Aboriginal Health Workers in the Northern Territory 1870–2013 is a collection of personal stories from individuals who have worked in the field of Aboriginal Health. The stories include anecdotes from people who have been involved in the field, both in the past and present, and provide insight into the challenges and successes of working in this field.

The authors

The authors of the story tellers are Kathy Abbott AHW and Rosie Elliott, Strait Islander Health Practitioners, and Lorna Fejo, a health practitioner and researcher. They have worked in the field of Aboriginal Health for many years and have a wealth of experience to share.

The support

The support of the Australian Government Department of Health is acknowledged for the publication of the story tellers.

The future of this week

Next week we will read more about the experiences of Aboriginal Health Workers in the Northern Territory.

Contact us feedback and comments

If you would like to contact us about the story tellers, please email us at ahw@blackwattleconsulting.com.au

The Aboriginal Health Practitioner Cultural Statement

The Aboriginal Health Practitioner Cultural Statement is a document that outlines the cultural principles and values that guide the work of Aboriginal Health Practitioners. It includes a preamble and 31 recommendations, and is intended to guide the work of Aboriginal Health Practitioners in the Northern Territory.

The ABCP Professional Review Report Implementation

The ABCP Professional Review Report Implementation Project is a project that aims to improve the quality of Aboriginal Health Practitioner services in the Northern Territory. It includes recommendations for improving the professional development of Aboriginal Health Practitioners, and is intended to guide the work of Aboriginal Health Practitioners in the Northern Territory.